Yearly Doctor Days Worked

The number of doctor days can be counted from the Grid Scheduler Template Calendar.

Grid Scheduler > Grid Tools menu > Template Calendar

You can view your past grids a month at a time and manually count the number of days worked. In our image on the next page, you can see that we have defined a color to identify each different template used. The "non-working day" template is defined in yellow; therefore, you could simply count up all non-yellow days.

Annual Practice Production

Annual practice production appears on the Transaction Summary report.

Main Menu > Practice Reports > Financial > Transaction Summary

Select the desired date range, office location, and doctor. View the report and read lines H, I, and J at the end of the report.

- Line H: Total of charges prior to adjustments.
- Line I: Total of all adjustments (such as treatment fee discounts or write-offs) made to accounts within that date range.
- Line J: Total of all adjusted charges. All adjustments are subtracted from gross charges, giving a true view of the total charges within that date range.

[names removed]	06-199	Active Phase II	0.00	0.00
(313 records were printed)			-3,204.00	-164.00

In addition, the number of these patients who paid in full at the start of treatment can be found by running the Transactions by Type report with the same subgroup.

Main Menu > Practice Reports > Financial > Transactions by Type

Select a date range to accommodate all active patients start dates and select your paid in full treatment fee adjustment. Under Group Options, select Subgroup and use the same subgroup as before. View the report and read the total number of records. Because each patient is included twice (due to both the discount and its offset being included), divide this number in half.

Patients on Recall Status and Patients in Retention

Both the number of patients in recall status and the number of patients in retention can be found with the Status Count Comparison report.

Main Menu > Practice Reports > Status > Status Count Comparison

Select the two dates you wish to compare. View the report and read the "# in on" columns for the line with your recall status. If you have more than one recall status, add the appropriate lines together. Then read the "# in on" columns for the line with your retention status. If you have more than one retention status, add the appropriate lines together.

† If you need assistance with this subgroup, call Ortho2 Software Support at (800) 346-4504.

Average Number of Patients Seen per Day

The average number of doctor days can be calculated from the Kept Procedures Summary - by Year report.

Main Menu > Practice Reports > Appointment > Kept Procedures Summary - by Year

Select the desired date range, office location, and doctor. Then select All procedures from the list. View the report and read the number for the desired year from the Total Count line.

Finally divide this total by the Yearly Doctor Days Worked (from page 1 of these instructions) following this formula:

$$\text{Total Kept Procedures for Year} / \text{Yearly Doctor Days Worked} = \text{Average Number of Patients Seen per Day}$$

Dr. Joseph Brown

Date: 10/1/2009

KEPT PROCEDURE SUMMARY - BY YEAR - January 1 to December 31

Alternately, patients per day is graphed on the Practice Statistical Analysis report. However, this report defines "day" as eight hours, not as a calendar day.

% Adult Patients in Active Treatment

The percentage of active treatment patients who are adults can be calculated from running the Patient Names by Status report with subgroups.

Main Menu > Practice Reports > Patient > Patient Names by Status

Select your active statuses from the list. View the report and read the totals. Add the totals together.

Select the same statuses. Use a subgroup for patients whose "Age in Years" is greater than or equal to 18.[†] View the report and read the totals. Add the totals together.

Finally, calculate the percentage following this formula:

$$\text{Total from the Second Report} / \text{Total from the First Report} \times 100 = \% \text{ Adult Patients in Active Treatment}$$

Alternately, the percentage of patients referred from each of these sources can be calculated from the Referral Detail - by Referrer report (in the Referrer reports). If you only want patients entered within a date range, subgroup based on Entry Date. View the report and add up the numbers of patients referred by all dentist referrers, by all patient referrers, and by all other sources. Compare these against the total of all patients on the report (found at the bottom of the last page) to calculate the percentage.

Alternately, if you would like to know the percentage of patients referred by their own dentist, not just any dentist, this can be found in the summary section of the Referral Analysis report.

Average Fees

The average comprehensive treatment fee (adolescent), average comprehensive treatment fee (adult), average phase I fee, and average phase II fee can all be calculated using the Contract Totals report with subgroups.

Main Menu > Practice Reports > Financial > Contract Totals

Select the desired date range (of start dates). Under Group Options, select Subgroup. Use a subgroup for patients who are in your comprehensive treatment phase and whose "Age in Years" is less than 18.† View the report and read the total number of records and the Contract Amt. column.

Select the same date range, and select Subgroup. Use a subgroup for patients who are in your comprehensive treatment phase and whose "Age in Years" is greater than or equal to 18.† View the report and read the total number of records and the Contract Amt. column.

Select the same date range, and select Subgroup. Use a subgroup for patients who are in phase I.† View the report and read the total number of records and the Contract Amt. column.

Select the same date range, and select Subgroup. Use a subgroup for patients who are in phase II.† View the report and read the total number of records and the Contract Amt. column.

For each report, calculate the average fee following this formula:

$$\text{Contract Amt. Total} / \text{Number of Records Printed} = \text{Average Treatment Fee}$$
